

The Savior Has Come from the CD The Little Child

I'm looking at an angel among the stars tonight
I think I see him dancing, his joy as pure as light
His arms are raised to heaven
He's singing with delight
Like he's watching his dream come true

In a manger the Savior, the Savior has come
And his heart cannot begin to express
Her joy and adoration

I see a weary lamb who wandered off alone
Whose journey for her Master has ended far from home
She found the baby Shepherd to call her very own
And she's watching her dream come true

In a manger, The Savior, the Savior has come
And her heart cannot begin to express
Her joy and adoration

Heaven has opened it's arms tonight
Poured out a beautiful, gracious light

I'm looking at a baby, and yet I see the King
Who is the hope of heaven, the perfect offering
I'm looking at my Savior
How can I help but sing?
I am watching my dream come true

In a manger, my Savior, my Savior has come
And my heart cannot begin to express
My joy, my joy, my joy and adoration

By Anne Barbour
©1996 Barbour Cuts Music/ASCAP